

Projects > Madison Water Utility Operations Building

PROJECTS

- Air Service
- Architecture & Interiors
- Aviation
- Bridges
- Building Engineering
- Construction
- Cultural Resources
- Energy
- Environmental
- Food & Beverage
- Transportation
- Military
- Municipal
- Water

Water utility facility brings efficiencies and urban renewal

The new Madison Water Utility Operations Center meets the city’s goals of increased safety, sustainability and urban renewal. The former facility, located on a contaminated urban site, was dilapidated and inadequate for the utility’s needs. The new 40,520-square-foot building design called for reuse of the historic building, combined with new construction. The project team designed a sustainable building to enhance operations and provide a quality industrial work environment. The building now houses administrative offices, work crew staging areas, separated workshops, vehicle maintenance work bays and staff support area.

Mead & Hunt seamlessly managed complicated building systems and constrained site issues during construction. Sustainable features include a green roof system, LED and natural daylighting and enhanced mechanical systems. The site also features an underground stormwater treatment vault that exceeds reduction standards. Once an eyesore, the openness and vibrancy of the facility has led to improved relations with the neighborhood.

AWARDS

American Council of Engineering Companies of Wisconsin
Engineering Excellence Award

Associated Builders and Contractors of Wisconsin
Project of Distinction

PROJECT
Madison Water Utility Operations Building

CLIENT
City of Madison Water Utility

EXPERTISE PROVIDED
Architecture & Interiors
Building Engineering

LOCATION
Madison, WI

TESTIMONIAL

“The reconstruction of the Operations Center on a small contaminated site in the heart of Madison required overcoming significant obstacles and effectively mixing historic architecture with a modern maintenance facility.”

Alan L. Larson, PE, BCEE
Madison Water Utility

MORE ON THIS PROJECT

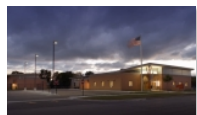

Two Madison Water Utility projects getting national attention (client website)

Madison Water Utility Operations Center project wins four awards

RELATED PROJECTS

Madison Water Utility Site Redevelopment

Marinette Water Treatment Facility

Waunakee Fire Station Expansion

Fresno Squadron Ops Facility Replacement

